

Intellectual Property Liability Insurance

Frequently asked questions

What business sectors fall within Ambridge's appetite?

Ambridge has appetite within a broad variety of industries including aerospace, agriculture, beverage, chemicals, food products, household goods, alternative/clean energy, industrial metals, automotive, publishing and entertainment, personal goods, textiles and apparel, travel and leisure, transportation, energy and utilities, and construction and engineering. Our appetite for companies in the computer hardware, electronics, gaming, medical equipment, telecommunications, semiconductor, and pharmaceutical industries is more limited.

Does Intellectual Property Liability Insurance provide worldwide coverage?

Yes, Ambridge policies provide worldwide coverage. However, we are most competitive on risks based in Europe, North America, Australia, and New Zealand.

What size company does Ambridge target for Intellectual Property Liability Insurance?

Ambridge generally targets companies with under GBP/EUR/USD 2 billion in annual sales.

Does Intellectual Property Liability Insurance cover existing disputes?

While Intellectual Property Liability Insurance is not designed to provide coverage for matters where infringement has already been alleged, please contact us to discuss the situation and your requirements. One of our other products may be responsive to your insurance needs.

Given the complexity of our product and intellectual property portfolio, is it not practical for us to complete your application. Is there another way for us to get an idea of what terms and conditions Ambridge might require?

Yes, we would be happy to have a call with you and your insurance broker to discuss some basic information about your company and your portfolio. After this call, we should be able to provide you with a non-binding outline of what terms might look like together with a list of what documents and information we would need in order to provide binding terms.
